PENN STATE CONCERT CHOIR CONCERT

The Penn State Concert Choir will present their fall concert on Sunday, October 29, at 4:00 pm in the Pasquerilla Spiritual Center on the University Park campus. They will be performing the sumptuous "Requiem" by Maurice Duruflé. This will be a special performance accompanied by William Neil, one of America's leading organists on the incredible organ in the Worship Hall. The Concert Choir will be joined by the State College Area High School under the direction of Erik Clayton, and each choir will perform works by Bach and Giovanni Gabrieli among others. Two of the works performed by concert choir, Bach's "Komm, Jesu, komm," and Andrew Maxfield's "The Little Stream Sings" are closely linked to the "Requiem" and will be an appropriate way to mark All Souls' Day which falls on the following Thursday. This will be a gorgeous concert, not to be missed. Tickets available at the door, $4.99 and $2.00, CASH ONLY.
