Calling for TLC garden helpers! We will meet twice a month in the evening starting May. Please contact Danielle Lanagan (dlanagan720@gmail.com) if you are interested. We will set up dates based on people's availability.

Interfaith Power & Light

A Religious Response to Global Warming

From Susan Stephenson, Executive Director

The Green New Deal resolution in Congress presents an opportunity to address two serious threats facing our country and our world: global warming and escalating economic inequality. Already nearly 100 faith organizations have signed onto our faith principles for a Green New Deal --- will you add your name today?

Global warming is endangering the very ecosystems that sustain life, and rising economic inequality is undermining the fabric of our democracy. As people of faith called to love our neighbors, do justice, and be stewards of Creation, we cannot remain silent. Policies to build an inclusive clean energy economy can help address both of these serious crises facing our shared home.

Pledge your support for a Green New Deal that includes equitable climate policy and gets us to net zero carbon emissions by 2050.

We believe the following key components are essential to any "Green New Deal" legislation: Emissions reduction targets in line with keeping global warming to 1.5 degrees C and a goal of 100% clean energy, a just transition for communities and workers, climate resilience and disaster preparedness, and support for poor countries on the front lines of climate impacts.

If you agree, please add your name so that we can let our members of Congress know that people of faith and conscience all over this country demand a fair and equitable Green New Deal.

With extreme weather, including mega-storms, the polar vortex, and devastating wildfires, Americans are waking up to the threat of global warming. Will the U.S. Congress also wake up in time to take meaningful action? That depends largely on whether they think their constituents care. Make your voice heard today.

Our government is a public trust and your involvement is a vital ingredient. Working together, we can ensure our values are reflected and get a fair and equitable Green New Deal that protects our planet while building an inclusive clean energy economy.

Earth Hour 2019 at Trinity Lutheran Church at about 7:30 PM on March 27, following Holden Prayer Service

Earth Hour started in 2007 as a simple observance of turning the lights off for an hour to show awareness of the negative effects human activities are having on our planet. While lights-out events remain central to the celebration of Earth Hour, the scope of the event has broadened as with the Connect to Earth theme for 2019 - something Trinity folks did with the Care of Creation hike on March 17. The lights-out celebration officially happens from 8:30 to 9:30 PM on March 30 this year (locally at Webster's Bookstore Café in downtown State College), but lots of small observances take place at various locations during the weeks immediately before and after the formal date and time. We will be observing Earth Hour at Trinity Lutheran in a very brief session of prayer and readings starting at about 7:30 PM after the conclusion of the Holden Prayer Service on Wednesday, March 27. We will be joined by friends from Good Shepherd Catholic Church and possibly additional PA IPL folks, so a good turnout of Trinity people would be encouraging.
